

The 1968 Film Series

October 18 | 6 PM
DAMEN CINEMA
1 hr 36 minutes

Released in 1968, Rojo Amanece follows a Mexican middle class family through the atrocities committed by army forces against students protesting the 1968 Olympic games. On October 2, 1968 in Mexico City, a small student revolt turns into a what is known today as the Tlatelolco Massacre. Political turmoil surrounding the atmosphere of the event, resulted in the murder of hundreds of people in the city square.

Join us for the screening of Rojo Amanece starring Héctor Bonilla, María Rojo, and directed by Jorge Fons. The film will be followed with a post-screening conversation with Professor Hector Garcia (Mod. Lang. Lit./WSGS).

Pizza and drinks will be provided.