David Sims grew up in Champaign, IL, but soon headed north to attend St. Olaf College in Northfield, MN. There he earned a B.M. in Church Music/Organ with Catherine Riedland and John Ferguson, served as a cantor for the student congregation, and was a teaching assistant in theory and ear training. While at St. Olaf he toured nationally and internationally with the St. Olaf Choir and held several leadership positions in the group. He wound up a Hoosier by earning a M.M. in Organ Performance from Indiana University in Bloomington, studying with Dr. Larry Smith.

David serves as Director of Music at North Christian Church, Columbus, IN. During the week he also works for Goulding & Wood Pipe Organ Builders of Indianapolis, where he helps wire, voice, tune, and maintain all of the organs they build and service.
